

Killarney Way Park - Pervious Pavers

The pavers around the pavilion are pervious and designed much like a sponge with millions of tiny pores that allow water to soak through them and into the ground below. This provides a nice firm surface much like a traditional patio but reduces the amount of stormwater runoff.

PAVER DRIVEWAY

Excess water in the narrow paver strip drains through a pipe to a Dry Well under the BBQ pad. The main patio drains through the gravel beneath then through the 3 pipes in the wall to the rain garden.
